THE PACIFICA STORY

Pacifica Graduate Institute is an innovative, employee-owned graduate school dedicated to the purpose expressed in its motto: animae mundi colendae gratia—for the sake of tending soul in and of the world.

Pacifica's genesis was in response to the Vietnam War and cultural upheaval of the 1970s. In the university town of Isla Vista, California, a group of concerned individuals saw returning veterans, families, and young people in distress. They gathered resources and developed a community counseling outreach program to aid those around them.

That community initiative evolved into a graduate program in counseling psychology. What was then known as the Human Potential Movement influenced both the degree program and its founders. Following the push of the times and their own calling, they attended workshops and trainings at the Esalen Institute. There they came to know Joseph Campbell, James Hillman, and the work of Marion Woodman—pioneering thinkers who made frequent trips to Santa Barbara as the school and its programs evolved. These mentors helped what was then the Human Relations Institute grow into Pacifica Graduate Institute—a respected and accredited graduate school firmly rooted in the traditions of depth psychology.

Today the world is quite different, yet remarkably the same. Troubled veterans return from war, society faces a partisan divide, and technology presses relentlessly onward. It will take a new generation of therapists, community activists, and storytellers to meet these challenges.

A PERSONALIZED, INNOVATIVE EDUCATION

Life wants not only the clear but also the muddy, not only the bright but also the dark; it wants all days to be followed by nights, and wisdom herself to celebrate her carnivals.

PACIFICA'S UNIQUE APPROACH TO GRADUATE EDUCATION

A TRANSFORMATIONAL EXPERIENCE

Pacifica students often reflect on their time here as a profound transformational journey. They share their enthusiasm for an experiential education of the mind, heart, and soul.

A DIVERSE COMMUNITY

Students come to Pacifica from across the country, and sometimes around the world. Most are working adults, from a variety of ethnic, socioeconomic, and age groups.

THE COHORT MODEL

At Pacifica, students learn in collaborative, close-knit cohort groups that become genuine communities, sustaining the growth of their members. The relationships formed are often lifelong. The cohort becomes a family where one is known, supported, and welcomed.

AN INTERDISCIPLINARY CURRICULUM

Pacifica's academic programs are interdisciplinary endeavors, drawing on literature, philosophy, mythology, the arts, and critical studies, in order to enliven and deepen the integration of ideas and experience.

INNOVATIVE ACADEMIC FORMATS

Most of Pacifica's degree programs are held in three or four day learning sessions once a month.

Two degree programs are offered in a blended hybrid low-residency format. Both configurations allow adult learners to pursue graduate studies while maintaining other commitments at home and work.

“A Pacifica education places people into relationship with one another. They learn in community. Working together, they become open to the imaginative process, which sparks a sense of innovation. At Pacifica, students are encouraged to follow their own curiosity. As they are mentored by professors and colleagues, their education becomes individualized and tailored to their particular goals and interests.”

—STEPHEN AIZENSTAT, PH.D.
CHANCELLOR AND FOUNDING PRESIDENT

The Pacifica faculty has found that those with an affinity for the work done at Pacifica share some significant qualities:

- A desire to integrate different aspects of their lives
- A tendency to inquire beyond the literal and concrete
- A calling to develop a career that benefits the wellbeing of others
- An open-hearted curiosity about exploring themselves, their community, and the larger world.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE WITH A DEPTH PSYCHOLOGICAL ORIENTATION

WHAT IS DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY?

Through the study of dreams, images, symptoms, slips of the tongue, spontaneous humor, and meaningful coincidences as well as interpersonal engagements, depth psychologists attempt to understand the language and the dynamics of unconscious processes as they manifest in their work with clients and in the world.

Depth psychological approaches to psychological suffering attempt to help us become aware of what has been cast out of consciousness or not yet able to be known. Healing is associated with allowing what has been repressed, rejected, denied or ignored to come forward so that we can explore its significance and integrate it, allowing for a transformation in consciousness.

Evidence for the effectiveness of depth psychological approaches to psychotherapy shows that depth psychology has a longer-lasting and more profound impact than cognitive or behavioral psychologies alone.

Depth Psychology also attends to the way unconscious processes express themselves in society and culture, and how culture affects the psyche. Depth psychological studies include psychotherapy as well as community, cultural, and ecological issues. Pacifica students and graduates help the field evolve through their scholarship, creative work, and actions in the world.

EXPANDING ON A DYNAMIC TRADITION

The tradition of depth psychology can be traced all the way back to ancient storytellers, dramatists, and philosophers—those individuals from all walks of life who sought to record the workings of the human imagination. From them we learned that the multiple dimensions of psychic reality are revealed in the art and literature of different cultures, and in the maladies of individuals and communities.

The modern academic and practical field of depth psychology originated with the work of Carl Jung and Sigmund Freud in the early 20th century. They called attention to the importance of what lies below the level of conscious awareness, and pioneered methods of association, amplification, and active imagination in order to explore it. Their work was advanced and expanded upon by original thinkers such as Joseph Campbell, Marion Woodman, Paulo Freire, and James Hillman.

The concepts and practices at the core of contemporary depth psychology are central to Pacifica's graduate degree programs. Each program's curriculum is infused with depth psychological ideas.

DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY IN TODAY'S WORLD

In this current time of global warming, hurricanes, fires, mass violence, and political polarization, the Pacifica community is evolving new ways for depth psychology to address the concerns of the world we live in.

We start with how we treat one another, for this is integral to the soul of the world. Empathy needs to be grounded in its archetypal base, acknowledging resonance with the roots of all being, transcending the individual, becoming communal in the broadest sense, including the Anima Mundi, the soul of the world.

The larger issues of environmental degradation, social injustice, and the polarization of society with racist and xenophobic fears requires greater attention in our educational system.

A new paradigm is required where learning and community are integrated at affective and somatic levels as well as through cognitive understandings: conscious and unconscious, personal and collective activations all need to be considered. Learning to recognize and take account of the deep connection between natural and human events can begin healing the historical wounds from a soulless, mechanistic understanding of reality.

The complexity of our emerging world requires us to cultivate new ways of knowing and being with one another, with attunement to the holistic aspect of the environments we live in. Only through deeply felt awareness of the profound interconnectedness of our world can a hopeful path through these times be discovered. Pacifica, as ever, is devoted to re-imagining and finding our way through.

PACIFICA'S LAMBERT ROAD CAMPUS

A 13-ACRE EDUCATIONAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE CENTER NEAR THE PACIFIC OCEAN

Pacifica's Lambert Road Campus is on the restored and expanded site of a former philanthropist's 1920s-era estate. The campus is graciously shaded by large oaks and sycamores, with soulful pathways, and inspiring views of the Pacific Ocean and the Santa Ynez Mountains.

The Lambert Road Campus houses classrooms, lecture halls, faculty and administrative offices, the Joseph Campbell and Marija Gimbutas Library, and a Graduate Research Library.

An organic mini-farm covers several acres and produces fruits, vegetables, herbs, and flowers that are enjoyed by students and faculty and staff in both Pacifica dining halls and throughout the local community, moving us closer to our goal of environmental sustainability.

People say that we're seeking a meaning for life. I think that what we're really seeking is an experience of being alive, so that our life experiences on the purely physical plane will have resonances within our own innermost being and reality, so that we actually feel the rapture of being alive.

~JOSEPH CAMPBELL

THE GUEST HOUSE

This being human is a guest house.
Every morning a new arrival.

A joy, a depression, a meanness, some momentary awareness comes as an unexpected visitor.

Welcome and entertain them all!
Even if they're a crowd of sorrows, who violently sweep your house
empty of its furniture, still, treat each guest honorably.

He may be clearing you out for some new delight.

The dark thought, the shame, the malice, meet them at the door laughing,
and invite them in.

Be grateful for whoever comes,
because each has been sent as a guide from beyond.

~JALĀL AD-DĪN MUHAMMAD RUMI

PACIFICA'S LADERA LANE CAMPUS

A 35-ACRE EDUCATIONAL AND RETREAT CENTER IN THE COASTAL FOOTHILLS

A short drive from its sister campus on Lambert Road, Pacifica's Ladera Lane Campus is home to a retreat center, classrooms, administrative offices, the Graduate Research Library, and the Pacifica Bookstore. The OPUS Archives and Research Center's rare collections are tended on this campus. Residential buildings offer lodging for students when classes are in session, and healthful meals are shared in the large communal dining hall. Spacious lawns present views of the Pacific Ocean, Santa Barbara Channel Islands, and surrounding Santa Ynez Mountains. Gardens, fountains, and wooded pathways afford spaces for quiet contemplation and conversation.

SUPPORT FROM EXCEPTIONAL ACADEMIC RESOURCES

OPUS ARCHIVES AND RESEARCH CENTER

OPUS Archives and Research Center is a nonprofit organization with facilities on both Pacifica campuses. OPUS preserves, develops, and extends the collections and libraries that have been placed in its care by eminent scholars in the fields of depth psychology, mythology, and the humanities.

Extremely valuable tools for research, the collections are made available to students and scholars. OPUS also offers scholarships, research grants, educational programs, and community events.

IN A SETTING OF GREAT NATURAL BEAUTY

The Santa Barbara area has many charms that enrich students' experiences—the Pacific Ocean, broad sandy beaches, the coastal foothills, the town's Mediterranean architecture, and its many cultural offerings.

GRADUATE RESEARCH LIBRARY

Pacifica's Graduate Research Library

holds special collections related to each of the Institute's degree programs. With branches on both campuses, the library offers access to 24,000 books, journals, and dissertations; as well as audio, video, and psychological testing materials; 100,000 e-books; and thousands of academic journals.

PACIFICA BOOKSTORE

The Pacifica Bookstore, on the Ladera Campus and online, stocks over 5,000 titles, including works by Pacifica faculty and alumni. It also offers clothing, jewelry, and unique objects.

Browse the Pacifica Bookstore online at pacificabookstore.com

NINETY MILES NORTH OF LOS ANGELES

Pacifica's Lambert Road Campus is near the ocean just south of Santa Barbara. The Ladera Lane Campus sits in the coastal foothills approximately two miles away.

PACIFICA GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM AND ACADEMIC FORMAT OVERVIEW

THE QUESTION OF VOCATION IS CRUCIAL

and choosing the right one requires listening to the voice within. The root of the word “vocation” is Latin for voice. Learning to trust that inner voice in the face of economic and social pressures that might urge otherwise is an act of courage. Accessing that courage is the key to finding the voice.

At Pacifica, students span a wide range of ages, and come from a spectrum of diverse backgrounds.

They are all committed—not just to getting an education—but to doing something important that carries real meaning for them.

For seven of Pacifica’s degree programs, students come to campus once a month for three- or four-day learning sessions. Between sessions, they continue reading, research, writing, and practicum experiences. The two hybrid low-residency programs allow students to learn in their home environment with quarterly residential sessions.

The M.A. is a Master of Arts Degree, which is a two to two-and-a-half year program. Depending on the program, the final project may be a thesis or a creative project.

The Ph.D. is a Doctor of Philosophy Degree, requiring two-and-a-half or three years of coursework followed by a dissertation.

The Psy.D. is a Doctor of Psychology Degree, requiring four years of coursework (without summer sessions), and a dissertation, followed by a one-year internship.

Pacifica Graduate Institute is regionally accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC).

M.A. IN COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY

With Emphasis in Marriage and Family Therapy, Professional Clinical Counseling, and Depth Psychology

The M.A. Counseling Psychology Program with Emphasis in Depth Psychology is dedicated to offering students unique and evidenced-based comprehensive training in the art of marriage, family, and individual psychotherapy and professional clinical counseling with an appreciation for the systemic and immeasurable dimensions of the psyche.

Depth psychology invites a curiosity about the psyche and respect for the diversity and resiliency of human experience. Interdisciplinary courses in literature, mythology, religion, and culture deepen students' ability to link collective systems and archetypal themes to sociopolitical issues in the lives of individuals, families, and communities.

As preparation for professional licensure, a rigorous academic program emphasizes theoretical understanding and experiential training in clinical skills. Research studies prepare students to explore and contribute to the tradition of scholarship within the depth psychological tradition to further Pacifica's dedication to thoughtful and soulful practice.

This dynamic course of study integrates marriage and family therapy and professional clinical counseling with depth psychology, preparing students for a meaningful career through enriched coursework, collaborative and experiential learning, and an engaged relationship with the mysteries of the psyche.

For over three decades, Pacifica's Masters in Counseling Psychology program has offered distinctive, comprehensive training in the art, science, and practice of marriage and family therapy and professional clinical counseling. As preparation for licensure in Marriage and Family Therapy (LMFT) and Professional Clinical Counseling (LPCC), this rigorous program emphasizes both theoretical understanding and experiential training in clinical skills. Pacifica students have outstanding pass rates on the California LMFT exams.

Students in the Counseling Psychology Program pursue two-and-a-half years of coursework in Marriage and Family Therapy, Professional Clinical Counseling, Theory and Praxis, Humanities, and Depth Traditions. Research studies prepare students to explore and contribute to the continuing development of scholarship within the marriage and family therapy, clinical counseling, and depth psychological tradition. This underlying emphasis invites a curiosity about the psyche and encourages respect for the diversity of life and human experience. Supervised practicum traineeship provides students the opportunity to apply clinical counseling techniques in a clinical setting. Students continue to learn multi-theoretical perspectives and supervisory styles while working with individuals, couples, families, and groups.

Students may create an area of focus on topics of interest such as somatic studies, mythology, or expressive art therapy through research papers and thesis topics.

At the same time this program prepares students for a meaningful professional career, it serves for many as a formal step towards the fulfillment of a lifelong vocation engaged in learning and relationship with the mystery of the depths.

~ WILLOW YOUNG, Program Chair

M.A. IN COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY

With Emphasis in Marriage and Family Therapy, Professional Clinical Counseling, and Depth Psychology

There is only one great adventure.
And that is inward toward the self.

~HENRY MILLER

Throughout the program, students are engaged in experiential learning and collaborative processes during residential sessions, in online and hybrid courses, and at their second- and third-year practicum sites. Inherent to the systemic paradigm, collaborative learning reflects the team approach to the assessment and treatment of individuals, couples, families, and groups.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF PACIFICA COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY STUDENTS AND GRADUATES INCLUDE:

- Pass rates on California state licensing exams that consistently exceed statewide averages
- Publication of thesis and articles in a wide range of professional and depth-oriented journals
- Receipt of MFT Consortium Grants
- Successful employment by mental health agencies upon completion of degrees
- Continuing education in doctoral programs
- High levels of job satisfaction, enriched growth and learning in the field

STUDENTS IN THE M.A. IN COUNSELING PSYCHOLOGY PROGRAM LEARN TO:

- Be proficient in theoretical orientations that offer perspective and provide meaning to systemic patterns and human behavior.
- Demonstrate process and clinical skills.
- Identify underlying psychological and systemic dynamics of human interaction.
- Determine and implement effective interventions and evidence-based treatment plans while demonstrating knowledge of family systems theories.
- Apply understanding to case conceptualization assessment and treatment in clinical practice.
- Enhance client functioning and well-being via multiculturally sensitive referrals and collaborative treatment team consultations.
- Understand individual, systemic, community, political, and biologic aspects of diversity and demonstrate knowledge and respect for diversity.
- Assess, diagnose, and treat the symptoms and characteristics of behavioral addictions, substance use, and dependence.
- Be knowledgeable, understand, and apply evidence-based assessment procedures to client cases and demonstrate awareness of community mental health and diversity-related considerations.
- Apply current legal and ethical standards and guidelines while working with diverse populations and demonstrate their knowledge and application in scholarly work and supervised practicum as they pertain to marriage and family therapy and professional clinical counseling.
- Identify and integrate systemic depth psychological perspectives of human interaction and demonstrate competence in the field of marriage and family therapy and professional clinical counseling.
- Demonstrate an evolving capacity to self-assess and articulate one's own strengths.

One of the things I enjoyed most about the program is that it is a very nurturing environment. You really dive in and get to know yourself, your weaknesses, and your vulnerabilities...and that is a vital area to navigate.

CARL CHAVEZ, M.A.
Counseling Psychology Graduate

Community is really the heart and soul of what Pacifica is about. There are many places where you can learn about psychology, but Pacifica offers that really ensouled, embodied experience in a sense of community that you are not going to find anywhere else.

JEMMA ELLIOT, M.A., LMFT, LPCC
Counseling Psychology Graduate

It is by going down to the abyss that we recover the treasures of life. Where you stumble, there lies your treasure.

~JOSEPH CAMPBELL

PH.D. IN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

Pacifica Graduate Institute's Clinical Psychology Programs have been designed to engage students' intellectual and relational clinical capacities in addition to inviting them toward a radically transformative relationship with themselves and the world. The programs offer training within both the human sciences and natural sciences paradigms, including broad and general foundational courses in psychology as well as courses that draw on areas such as humanities, philosophy, history, anthropology, physics (complexity theory), cultural studies, and the arts.

Inaugurated in 1987, Pacifica's Ph.D. Clinical Psychology Program is dedicated to educating scholar-practitioners who integrate theory, research and clinical practice within human science and depth psychology traditions. The program stresses engagement with issues of social justice and care as essential to the role of clinical psychologist as a citizen. The curriculum is designed to lead to licensure as a clinical psychologist (based on educational requirements for psychologists in the State of California).

The Program focuses on theoretical, cultural, and clinical traditions of depth psychology. Found in multiple cultural contexts and perspectives, including the explorations of Freud and Jung, depth psychologies are distinguished by their recognition of a latent or unconscious dimension of psychological life. This unconscious element, or depth in human experience, is understood as essential to the transformative character of the therapeutic relationship as well as engagement in scholarly inquiry.

The program is inspired by psychoanalytic, Jungian, and existential-phenomenological perspectives in their historical and contemporary formulations, including relational, archetypal, and hermeneutic psychologies. Significant attention is given to dialogue with related disciplines such as multiculturalism, postmodernism, feminist theory, gender studies, indigenous psychology, complexity theory, liberation and decolonial critical approaches, ecological studies, and humanistic-existential values.

Clinical instruction emphasizes the importance of the therapeutic relationship, particularly transference and counter-transference dynamics, the significance of dreams, early development including attachment and trauma, developmental stages across the lifespan, individuation as a process of psychic transformation, mind-body integration, therapeutic presence, and the cultural context of healing. A critical dialogue is maintained with contemporary developments in the field, such as neurosciences and neuropsychology with critical historical examinations of factors that influence the practice and science of psychology.

When I was a student and later faculty at a large state university, I thought my inner life and my professional life had to be divided. When I found Pacifica, I was delighted to work in a place where we openly integrate depth psychological principles in all aspects of our lives and work. I believe this integration inspires us to be a community of students, faculty, and staff that share a commitment to tending the soul in and of the world.

~ OKSANA YAKUSHKO, Department Chair

ACADEMIC FORMAT

Clinical Psychology Ph.D. classes take place in four-day sessions (Thursday evening through Sunday afternoon) once each month during fall, winter, and spring. There is also one seven-day summer session each year. Between learning sessions, advising, mentoring, study and instruction continue through individual and group mentorship from faculty, web-enhanced learning, and cohort support groups.

PH.D. IN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

This program prepares students for licensure in clinical psychology.*

The commitment to a human science model of psychology—a viable alternative to conventional psychology’s natural science approach—emphasizes human meaning as the fundamental component of psychological life. This focus on meaning, carried out by way of the program’s qualitative research orientation, yields an in-depth understanding of how things matter for people within their life situations. Acknowledging the cultural and historical character of meaning, human science psychology is deliberately affiliated with the humanities. Accordingly, our curriculum is infused with the study of mythology, history, religion, philosophy, and the arts.

By emphasizing the importance of scholarship in the education of psychologists, the program continues depth psychology’s longstanding approach to clinical training. The clinical orientation that infuses our curriculum facilitates the engagement of theory and research in addressing individual, community, and global concerns.

Our goal is to prepare students to become constructively engaged in diverse clinical, academic, and community settings as researchers and clinicians who are grounded in deeply humane, theoretically sophisticated, and socially conscious approaches to clinical psychology. The engaging beauty of the campus, an intense residency format, and class cohort configuration all lend themselves to an experience of scholarly and personal development keenly attuned to Pacifica’s mission of “tending soul in and of the world.”

The Ph.D. program includes three years of coursework, followed by a two-year dissertation clock. The internship may be undertaken before, during, or after the dissertation phase (but after all coursework is completed).

YEAR ONE	Course Work
YEAR TWO	Course Work	Practicum

*While the program meets the requirements for the state of California, the curriculum may not meet all requirements that each state has for licensure in clinical psychology, and students are encouraged to check the requirements in the state(s) where they may be practicing.

I want psychology to have its base in the imagination of people rather than in their statistics and their diagnostics.
~JAMES HILLMAN

KEY FEATURES OF THE PH.D. PROGRAM INCLUDE:

- A curriculum rooted in classical and emerging depth psychology scholarship that is also guided by the humanities (myth, literature, and religious studies).
- A human science model of research that relies on phenomenological, interpretive, and constructivist approaches, as opposed to the quantitative framework of a natural science orientation.
- Courses on Jungian scholarship and practice that emphasize classical analytical traditions as well as contemporary archetypal and imaginal approaches to psychology and psychotherapy. This coursework also emphasizes the symbolic and mythic significance of the soul, as well as the sacred dimensions of the psyche.
- Coursework stressing the centrality of early experience and transference/counter-transference phenomena as well as contemporary relational, inter-subjective, and psychodynamic traditions.
- A phenomenological focus that integrates social and critical psychology in order to reflect a deep appreciation of the cultural and historical character of psychological experience.
- A depth psychological approach to research from a hermeneutic interpretive standpoint that takes the unconscious dimensions of research into account.
- The embrace of multicultural and critical perspectives in understanding gender, sexuality, indigenous psychologies, and somatic and Eastern perspectives.
- Advanced practicum seminars conducted as case colloquia that engage psychoanalytic, phenomenological, and Jungian/archetypal/imaginal approaches to clinical practice.

Pacifica has provided a forum for a kind of critical thinking unique to the depth psychological tradition. I have learned how to harness ideas with deeper inquiry, all while being offered a lineage of scholars to feel connected to through rigorous coursework.

DANA KLINE
Clinical Psychology Student

Pacifica has given me tools to bridge the gap between traditional psychotherapy and indigenous practices. I have learned to take ideas from the clinical room into the community at large and at the same time tend the soul in and of the world.

PSY.D. IN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

Pacifica's Psy.D. program offers a uniquely integrative and depth-focused clinical psychology education, which emphasizes the vital importance of the unconscious life in individual lives as well as within larger community structures. Program training seeks to foster critical relational and social awareness as well as skills essential to a successful career as a clinical psychologist working in diverse inter-professional settings. Following a practitioner-scholar model, this program represents Pacifica's commitment to grounding the principles of depth psychology in clinical practice within community settings.

The Psy.D. Program's mission is to train clinical psychologists who can apply depth psychological knowledge and skills within diverse practice settings. Community mental health practices in working with diverse community are emphasized. The program seeks to develop clinical psychologists who are skilled in a broad range of clinical work, including psychotherapy, assessment, supervision, and consultation, as well as integrative approaches to health, which are informed and enriched by depth psychological perspectives. Pacifica seeks to train students toward an integration of broad and general knowledge in clinical psychology with scholarship on the unconscious and relational factors that motivate individual and collective behavior.

Although the program is new, it is rooted in the in clinical psychology offerings by Pacifica since the late 1980s. Thus, the program bridges the rich history of teaching depth psychology with the contemporary world of clinical psychology. This practical integration emphasizes depth psychological perspectives within current areas of psychological studies such as: relational approaches and attachment; evidence-based practices; integrative assessment; interpersonal neurobiology and biopsychosocial approaches to integrative health care; community-based practice approaches; and mental health public policy.

The curriculum reflects a commitment to bringing compassionate and socially responsible scholarship and values to the important questions posed by applied clinical psychology, including work with traditionally underserved individuals and communities. The program offers courses that provide foundational knowledge in psychology as well as those that focus on depth psychological treatments, community mental health, diversity, and indigenous perspectives in psychology.

We make choices about how we wish to grow psychologically as individuals and as participating members of our Collective. Jungian psychology has the ability to help us deepen our emotional and spiritual selves. This psychology can belong to us—all of us, who wish to share in its richness through this deepening.

~ FANNY BREWSTER, Core Faculty

ACADEMIC FORMAT

Clinical Psychology Psy.D. classes take place in four-day sessions (Thursday evening through Sunday afternoon) once each month during fall, winter, and spring over a period of four years. Between sessions, study and instruction continue through individual mentorship from faculty, web-enhanced learning, and cohort support groups. Pre-doctoral internship is expected to take place during fifth year in the program, following the completion of coursework, qualifying and comprehensive exam, and significant progress toward the dissertation.

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

This program prepares students for licensure in clinical psychology.*

The Psy.D. Program's intense learning retreats on the Lambert Road Campus, its class cohort configuration, and the engaging beauty of the surroundings all lend themselves to an experience of scholarly and personal development keenly attuned to Pacifica's mission of "tending soul in and of the world."

Pacifica's Psy.D. Program offers a uniquely integrative education, which carefully preserves the importance of the role of unconscious life, not only in clinical practice but also within larger community structures. The program brings together established and emerging practices in depth psychology, especially in their application to clinical practice with diverse individuals and communities. Attunement to unconscious processes, relational dynamics, and sociocultural complexities can be integral to therapeutic work in any clinical setting.

The program emphasizes how diagnosis, assessment, crisis intervention, and treatment can actively draw from depth psychological principles and traditions. In addition, the program extends toward educating students in new approaches to integrating depth psychological knowledge in practice. Students learn about evidence-based and empirically validated practices that are grounded in depth psychological principles (e.g., transference based, relational approaches), as well as brief forms of psychodynamic treatment. Approaches to working with the unconscious processes through dreams, active imagination, and transference-countertransference interpretations are taught across the curriculum. Training in program evaluation, grant writing, and distinct clinical skills such as sandplay/sandtray approaches are also included.

*While the program meets the requirements for the state of California, the curriculum may not meet all requirements that each state has for licensure in clinical psychology, and students are encouraged to check the requirements in the state(s) where they may be practicing.

The Psy.D. program is comprised of four years of coursework, with the dissertation taking place during Years Three and Four. Students are expected to complete and defend the clinical research project before the end of the fourth year. Year Five includes the internship

The Dissertation is embedded within the curriculum, which is designed to help students complete their degree in a timely way and be competitive for pre-doctoral internships.

M.A./PH.D. IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

WITH SPECIALIZATION IN SOMATIC STUDIES

In a disembodied world at risk of losing its soul, there can be no more crucial task than reclaiming the sensual mystery of our bodily selves. Long recognized in indigenous cultures, the lived experience of the body is experiencing a renaissance within Western world views. From neuroscience and medicine to traumatology and the expressive arts, scholars and researchers are rediscovering the integral role of the bodymind in healing, learning, and social transformation.

The program incorporates an interdisciplinary range of practices and perspectives held within eight subject area streams. Within these streams – including Integrative Health and Wellness, Somatic Depth Counseling and Psychotherapy, Community Development, and Embodied Depth Leadership – students articulate unique fieldwork projects and dissertation research that allow them to work at an advanced level in their chosen fields. Students may also pursue qualification as a Registered Somatic Movement Therapist® or Registered Somatic Movement Educator® through an articulation agreement with the International Somatic Movement Education and Therapy Association (ISMETA).

Students in the Somatic Studies specialization go on to publish books, start community non-profits, or develop consulting practices. Graduates may also choose to pursue academic careers, teaching in higher education or engaging in post-doctoral research. Each in their own way, students bring a highly developed understanding of the body/psyche intersection to the work they choose to pursue.

By infusing depth psychology with a somatic perspective, students learn to work deeply and skillfully at the intersection of body and soul across a range of professions.

The interdisciplinary focus of the Somatic Studies Specialization is grounded in embodied learning, fieldwork practice, and original research that illuminates for each student how the felt experience and understanding of the body can inform their work.

~ RAE JOHNSON, Specialization Chair

The Somatic Studies specialization in the Depth Psychology program at Pacifica Graduate Institute is an Associate Member of the International Somatic Movement Education and Therapy Association (ISMETA). Selected courses in the Somatic Studies curriculum are pre-approved toward independent track application to become a Registered Somatic Movement Educator or Therapist® with ISMETA. Please contact Pacifica for a list of current pre-approved courses and contact ISMETA for additional information about the independent track application process.

ACADEMIC FORMAT

Students in the Somatic Studies specialization come to campus nine times each year for three years. Each campus session consists of three days each month during fall, winter, and spring quarters. During each residential session students attend lectures and seminars, engage in experiential and embodied learning, and have time for reflection and research in the Pacifica Library and OPUS Archives. Students engage in off-campus fieldwork in the summer quarters of their first and second years of study.

M.A./PH.D. IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY WITH EMPHASIS IN SOMATIC STUDIES

The term “somatic” was coined by Thomas Hanna, an existential phenomenological philosopher, in the 1970s. Although many of the approaches now considered somatic predate this term by hundreds of years, they share a common focus: working with the lived, subjective experience of the body. Somatic Studies is an umbrella term that includes somatic psychology (working with the experience of the body to support mental health), somatic movement therapy (working with the experience of the body to promote improved movement functioning), and many forms of health and wellness. A somatic perspective also flourishes within the fields of education, philosophy, sociology, anthropology, and performance studies.

Our research-based program offers students the opportunity to work within this broad interdisciplinary umbrella while retaining a clear focus on depth psychology. In some ways, this program is more tightly focused than other graduate programs (for example, those in somatic counseling psychology), in that it works within a single approach to psychological inquiry. In other ways, it is broader; the somatic studies emphasis allows us to draw from a range of ideas and practices not typically addressed in clinical somatic psychology programs.

As a somatics professional, I found Pacifica's commitment to this emerging field to be cutting edge. The masterful balance between academic rigor and tending to the soul invites students to develop a capacity for scholarly inquiry, while connecting with their passion and true vocational calling.

JENI AMBROSE, M.A.
Depth Psychology Graduate

The emerging paradigm for the 21st century requires individuals who can think across professional and disciplinary boundaries, fully embody a holistic and integrative perspective in their area of interest, and know how to harness their vision and energy to tackle real-world problems. In particular, we believe that leaders in this new paradigm will have the capacity to work through the body to tend the soul of the world. This program positions students to create and fulfill these leadership roles by:

- Providing them with foundational knowledge in depth psychology and interdisciplinary somatic studies.
- Engaging them in transformative practice and fieldwork projects specifically tailored to their interests and expertise.
- Teaching skills that strengthen their professional effectiveness, and helping them to identify and research issues with the potential to change how we live in the world.

STUDENTS IN THE SOMATIC STUDIES SPECIALIZATION:

- Read, interpret, and critically reflect upon the theories and traditions of depth psychology, remembering the body and recalling its voice.
- Develop the capacity and skill to maintain awareness of and connection to the unconscious.
- Explore dream work, body movement, and active imagination as transformative practices.
- Develop literacy in the emerging domain of neuroscience as it applies to depth psychology and the mind/body connection.
- Develop skills in research and writing that articulate and promote new theoretical directions and practical applications.
- Participate with interdisciplinary scholars and practitioners in an emerging field of study.
- Create a professional portfolio to enhance existing career skills.
- Engage in transformative practices and fieldwork projects.

At Pacifica I found it possible to engage in the academic world in an embodied way—an approach that includes not just the thinking mind but also the sensing and emotional body. As an expressive arts therapist, I felt validated and encouraged to continue articulating my knowledge. Pacifica opened the door for me to a new paradigm in depth psychology, one that not only sustains the primacy of the psyche, but also sees the psyche as body.

WITH SPECIALIZATION IN JUNGIAN AND ARCHETYPAL STUDIES

If you are considering applying to the Jungian and Archetypal Studies Specialization, you might be especially interested in exploring what Jung called archetypes—universal principles and organizing patterns that pre-condition and animate human experience from the depths of the collective unconscious, a universal dimension of the psyche common to each of us.

The program curriculum will also enable you to gain a comprehensive understanding of the process of psychological development and transformation that Jung called individuation, which leads to the realization of the deeper Self, the greater universal person within us. This was the main focus of Jung's study of alchemy. Jungian ideas also inspired the polytheism of James Hillman's archetypal psychology. For Hillman, gods and goddesses pervade everything. By engaging mythopoetically with life, and recognizing the gods and goddesses in all things, one can participate in the process Hillman called "soul-making."

This rigorous, creative exploration of Jungian and archetypal psychology provides students with a range of theories, skills, and practices they can apply directly to their professional, personal, and creative lives, while addressing the collective challenges and opportunities of our moment in history. For those called to explore the personal and collective psyche, this program of study provides a unique opportunity to engage with, apply, and advance depth psychological theories and practices within the Jungian and archetypal traditions. Building on the work of C.G. Jung and James Hillman, students will consider approaches to the psyche that foster healing, transformation, self-expression, creativity, and the development of consciousness.

The Jungian and Archetypal Studies specialization moves depth psychology from the clinical consulting room out into the wider world. By stimulating and supporting the scholarship and creative research of students, the program promotes the crucial task of advancing depth psychological ideas and practices as catalysts for individual and cultural transformation.

The faculty is comprised of esteemed international scholars with a broad range of areas of expertise. They introduce students to foundational theoretical constructs in the field while helping them to engage critically and creatively with the course material. The coursework itself is aligned with Jung's emphasis on the "ineluctable psychological necessity" of individuation, the process by which one might attain deep self-knowledge, further the development of consciousness, and better understand the unconscious factors shaping human experience.

For those called to explore the deeper dimensions of the human psyche, this program of study provides a unique opportunity to engage with, apply, and advance depth psychological theories and practices within the Jungian and archetypal traditions. Building on the work of C.G. Jung and James Hillman, students will consider approaches to the psyche that foster healing, transformation, self-expression, creativity, and the development of consciousness.

ACADEMIC FORMAT

This transformative and scholarly degree program takes advantage of online technology to allow students to work and learn in their home environments, while also taking part in engaged community sessions on Pacifica's Ladera Lane Campus. Classes begin online and meet during four-day residential sessions (Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday) once per quarter. During these on-campus sessions, students have access to the Institute's extensive resources and are able to engage with their classmates and instructors face-to-face, combining lecture, discussion, and experiential and embodied learning. Residential retreat sessions also allow time for exploration and community building through shared meals, social events, film screenings, guest lectures, and circle councils.

People who have been enrolled in our learning programs with an online component will tell you that community and intimacy builds quickly in that environment. While you may not “see” your classmates every month, like students in the residential programs, you will “hear” from them weekly. In fact, online learning is particularly conducive to hearing the voices of all students, as it requires participation from everyone; students who normally may be very quiet in a traditional classroom may be more comfortable “speaking” online.

Remember, too, that you will spend a little more than half of the direct instruction for each course meeting face-to-face with your classmates, and over those four days per quarter on campus, you will continue online discussions over shared meals, you will watch films and have social time, you will attend classes and guest lectures, and work together in pairs and groups. Community has been at the heart and soul of this specialization from its inception. In 1948, when Jung gave his dedication speech on the occasion of the founding of the C. G. Jung Institute in Zürich, he called for a community of scholars to come together to imagine extensions “without limit” for depth psychology in the world. This specialization aims to be such a community, one where students and faculty come together to support each other in exploring, applying, and advancing Jungian and archetypal studies “without limit” in the world. As part of every course, students will share their understanding of how the material is relevant to their lives and their vocational callings, with their classmates and instructors serving as sounding boards and tuning forks who will provide support, share resources, and help refine each other’s theories and practices.

STUDENTS IN THE JUNGIAN AND ARCHETYPAL STUDIES SPECIALIZATION:

- Critically explore a range of topics central to our understanding of the role of the unconscious psyche in human experience, such as healing, myth, dream, film, soul, spirit, ecology, religion, creativity, personal transformation, individuation, the development of consciousness, and more.
- Deepen the capacity for imaginal, symbolic, mythic, critical, theoretical, and archetypal thinking and being in the world.
- Engage with the creative, dynamic unconscious in both its personal and collective dimensions.
- Hone the expression of their unique voice and vision through courses in research, writing, publication, and presentation.
- Study side-by-side with Jungian scholars and practitioners interested in envisioning new possibilities for extending contemporary thought and practices into the world.
- Read deeply and broadly from the Collected Works of C.G. Jung, Jung’s Red Book, and other core texts in the depth psychological tradition.
- Evaluate the limitations and potentials of Jungian and archetypal psychology within contemporary contexts.

M.A./PH.D. IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

WITH SPECIALIZATION IN COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY, LIBERATION PSYCHOLOGY, AND ECOPSYCHOLOGY

This specialization seeks to address the critical personal, community, cultural, and ecological challenges of our time. Nourished by depth psychology, students become sensitive to the interdependence of individual, cultural, and collective dynamics, and to dialogue, the arts, and the imaginal as catalysts to vision and transformation. Community and ecological fieldwork and research are designed to help students pursue their distinctive areas of interest, gathering the theoretical understanding, fieldwork and research skills to deepen their engagement in their work.

This degree program specialization is a bold initiative to forge transdisciplinary and transformative approaches to the critical personal, community, cultural, and ecological challenges of our time. Accomplishing this necessitates a radical engagement in re-conceiving psychology as a potentially liberatory and restorative force in society, one engaged in initiatives to promote social, economic, and environmental justice, peace-building, and ecological sustainability. The specialization is committed to rebuilding fragmented cultural and ecological connections, and to co-creating democratic, dialogical, joyful, sustainable, and nonviolent living.

To study community and ecopsychology in the light of liberation and indigenous psychologies commits us to deeply explore and address the profound effects of injustice, violence, and exploitation on psychological, communal, and ecological well-being. The curriculum places multicultural approaches to depth psychological theories and practices in dynamic dialogue with ecopsychology, indigenous psychologies, critical community psychology, and psychologies of liberation from diverse cultural settings. Students gain an understanding of the interdependence of individual, community, cultural, and ecological well-being.

Coursework nurtures creative approaches to collaboration in organizations, non-profits, community groups, and educational settings. Through community and ecological fieldwork and research, students are supported in the pursuit of their distinctive areas of interest, and in strengthening their research and practice skills. Students are able to make their own significant contributions to the attainment of a just and sustainable world, in which—as Paulo Freire said— “it is easier to love.”

This specialization is a commitment to transformative practices aimed at social justice and ecological sustainability, to sumak kawsay/buen vivir, and, ultimately, peace and reconciliation.

~ SUSAN JAMES, Specialization Co-Chair

The curriculum places decolonial approaches to depth psychological theories and practices in dynamic dialogue with ecopsychology, indigenous psychologies, critical community psychology, and psychologies of liberation from diverse cultures.

~ NURIA CIOFALO, Specialization Co-Chair

ACADEMIC FORMAT

Classes for the Community Psychology, Liberation Psychology, and Ecopsychology specialization take place in nine three-day sessions (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday), approximately once each month during fall, winter, and spring (October to July). In the first and second summers, students complete fieldwork and research in their home communities or other off-campus sites. In the third summer and subsequent year(s), students are involved in writing their dissertations in their home communities.

WITH SPECIALIZATION IN COMMUNITY PSYCHOLOGY, LIBERATION PSYCHOLOGY, AND ECOPSYCHOLOGY

This specialization is the only graduate program in the U.S. that focuses on liberation psychology, and the only one that places critical community psychology, indigenous psychologies, and ecopsychology into dynamic conversation with one another. In community and ecopsychological fieldwork, students act as bridges between the knowledge developed by ecological and cultural workers and each area of focus.

Students apply learning to leadership positions in a wide variety of professions, including: health services (including hospice); youth, secondary, adult, and alternative education; organizational development and transformation; prison reform and restorative justice initiatives; governmental and nongovernmental organizations; social and environmental justice, community building and policy development; advocacy and grassroots coalitions; arts-activism; trauma healing; peace-building and community dialogue; planning and evaluation; land preservation; ecological sustainability; local food initiatives; philanthropy; micro-lending and economic alternatives.

There are a variety of scholarships available for this specialization (see page 53), including Coverdell Fellows Program Scholarships for returned Peace Corps volunteers, Herman Warsh Community-Based Scholarships, Pacifica Yellow Ribbon Scholarships for veterans, and Pacifica Matching Americorps Scholarship Program.

It is a question of whether psychological knowledge will be placed in the service of constructing a society where the welfare of the few is not built on the wretchedness of the many, where the fulfillment of some does not require that others be deprived, where the interests of the minority do not demand the dehumanization of all.

- Learn innovative and historical approaches to trauma healing, restorative justice, ecological sustainability, community building, economic justice, forced migration, alternatives to violence, peace-building, and reconciliation
- Practice participatory action research and program and organizational evaluation, while deepening ethical discernment of issues of power and privilege
- Train in a wide variety of group approaches to cultural and ecological work
- Heighten sensitivity to the imaginal, the metaphorical, and the mythical
- Develop the capacity to teach in academic and community learning environments
- Apply insights to leadership positions in a wide variety of professions, including the following: health services; youth, adult, and alternative education; organizational development and transformation; prison reform and restorative justice initiatives; non-profits and non-governmental organizations; social justice, advocacy, and grass roots coalitions; arts-based community building; trauma healing; and environmental justice and sustainability

PH.D. IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

WITH SPECIALIZATION IN INTEGRATIVE THERAPY AND HEALING PRACTICES

An innovative doctoral specialization that re-imagines approaches to therapeutic practice, enhances and supports the individuation work of students, and integrates the essential perspectives of depth psychology and applied healing traditions.

Students develop important mentoring relationships with Pacifica's unique faculty of clinicians, consultants, and scholars that include, but are not limited to: Jungian analysts, post-Jungian theorists and therapists, clinical psychologists, psychiatrists, psychodynamic therapists, systems therapists, humanistic and archetypal psychologists, spiritual counselors, ecotherapists, health and medical professionals, and advanced scholars in research, mythology, consciousness, creativity, complex adaptive systems, and the humanities.

This doctoral specialization cultivates an integrative approach to professional development in the healing arts informed by bridging multidisciplinary frameworks with depth psychological inquiry. Working with leading faculty, students in this program engage in a journey of personalized education that fosters advanced therapeutic skills and practices, alternative healing modalities, non-linear paradigms, individual and group consultation skills, and which supports them in making important and original scholarly contributions to their fields.

We invite you to join a diverse group of academic and practice-oriented professionals who are called to deepen their therapeutic work through an integrative study of healing based on the visionary aspects of depth psychology. Become a part of a learning community that explores the critical connections between psychology, consciousness, spirituality, and healing.

We welcome students with profound curiosity about themselves and the world, and lifelong learners devoted to a transformative engagement with the numinous, the psyche, complexity and emergence, artistic intuition, and the natural world.

In three-day residential learning retreats surrounded by the natural landscape of Pacifica's Lambert campus, students and faculty work together to integrate essential healing traditions and contemporary research—drawing from indigenous and ancient practices, ecotherapeutic modalities, multicultural and contemporary perspectives, and emerging science on human experience and consciousness

As we sit with paradox and uncertainty in our individual and collective lives, it inspires me to be involved in a program that invites deep curiosity as well as interdisciplinary inquiry, diversity, and dialogue. The depth therapy program asks the difficult questions of consciousness while attending to the practical matter of how to address healing and its meaning. The program achieves these goals in tangible ways that are informed by both traditional and current ways of knowing, drawing deeply on the power and relevance of the symbolic. I welcome you to join us in this unique and integrative depth program!

~ JULIET ROHDE-BROWN, Specialization Chair

The call may have been more like gentle pushings in the stream in which you drifted unknowingly to a particular spot on the bank. Looking back, you sense that fate had a hand in it.

~JAMES HILLMAN

STUDENTS IN THE INTEGRATIVE THERAPY AND HEALING PRACTICES SPECIALIZATION:

- Join an advanced doctoral cohort of diverse professionals collaborating and deepening their work with clients and themselves.
- Explore the growing field of depth psychological research and develop perspectives that help address the critical needs of our world.
- Develop a greater capacity to work symbolically with images, dreams, symptoms, complexes, and synchronicity.
- Work towards becoming advanced practitioners, academic educators, supervisors, or scholarly researchers in the field.
- Examine the critical underpinnings of therapeutic processes and the broad range of theoretical approaches to mental, physical, and spiritual well-being.
- Build mentoring relationships with distinguished faculty and experts devoted to supporting students in deepening their practice and their individuation journey.
- Study the works of leading scholars who have bridged psychological, cultural, mythological, historical, and social traditions to advance broader understandings of human experience.
- Develop advanced skills in important practice areas, such as somatic healing, sexuality, dream work, and spirituality.
- Investigate the important connections between the health of an individual or group and the health of their environment and culture through courses that consider ecology, collective trauma, social justice, and cross-cultural dynamics.

Pacifica provides a foundation for learning about the depths of soul—and tending soul—across all cultures and throughout the world. It is a wonderful place to call home.

GINGER SWANSON, PH.D.
Depth Psychology Graduate

I've always felt supported and inspired here. It was so rich to be able to engage in meaningful dialogue with people who thought and felt the same way. My time on campus was like coming home to a family where you all speak the same language. Pacifica's message—tending the soul of the world—has resonated with me from the beginning. It speaks to how when we attend to one individual, we are simultaneously tending the world's collective soul, as we are all interconnected.

ANGELA DEVITA, PH.D.
Depth Psychology Graduate

At some point, on our way to a new consciousness, we will have to leave the opposite bank, the split between the two mortal combatants somehow healed so that we are on both shores at once and, at once, see through serpent and eagle eyes.

M.A./PH.D. IN MYTHOLOGICAL STUDIES

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

As the only doctoral program in the country dedicated to the exploration of human experience through the interdisciplinary and multicultural study of myth, ritual, religion, literature, depth psychology, and art, the Mythological Studies Program cultivates scholarship, self-inquiry, and imagination in those who seek to understand and express the depths of the psyche. The program is richly informed by the pioneering works of Sigmund Freud, C.G. Jung, Marie-Louise von Franz, James Hillman, and the renowned mythologist, Joseph Campbell, who taught that myth has the power to touch our deepest creative energies, and to generate symbolic images that confer significance upon the complexity of modern life and history. It thrives on paradox, ambiguity, and the shape-shifting ways that metaphor informs and transforms our lives.

Cultivating the mythic imagination leads to self-revelation and a profound and dynamic understanding of cultures—both our own and others.

The curriculum as a whole is animated by two basic questions: How is this material meaningful in my life and work, and how is it meaningful to the world within which I live? The sequence of coursework provides a sustained inquiry into the diverse mythologies of the world, situating them in the global context of the postmodern world. Throughout the program, students engage in the close reading of classic works of world literature, including Homer's Odyssey, the Greek tragedies, the Hebrew Bible, the Ramayana and Mahabharata, medieval grail legends, and fairy tales. The rituals and contemplative practices of religious traditions are investigated along with mythic and archetypal aspects of modern literature, contemporary events, and popular culture. Several methods of scholarly interpretation are taught with a special emphasis on the hermeneutical approaches of depth psychology.

Students consolidate their learning through a sequence of special topics courses taught by alumni who utilize their training in their professional careers as well as by distinguished faculty members from other Pacifica programs, including Stephen Aizenstat, Susan Rowland, and Joseph Cambray. A student literary journal provides opportunities for publication. The curriculum is further augmented by an annual colloquium lecture given by distinguished guest scholars—such as Robert Segal (University of Aberdeen), Maria Tatar (Harvard University), and Jeffrey Kripal (Rice University)—who address critical issues in the study of myth and contemporary culture. Students are mentored by core faculty throughout their matriculation through course work. Graduates of the program enrich their personal and professional lives through the transformative power of myth. Alumni utilize their degree in a range of professions such as education, psychology, healthcare, the arts, filmmaking, religion, business, politics, law, and community and environmental affairs.

Myth has the power to touch and exhilarate the deepest creative energies of the psyche, and to generate symbolic images that confer shape and significance upon what often seems the chaotic anarchy of contemporary life. Engaging those energies in the experience of deep reading, writing, and discussion in the classroom has been the joy of my career as a teacher and writer. To transmit that joy to the next generation, in challenging times of radical change; to tend the soul that animates the world; and to continue the inspired quest for myths to live by—these are the responsibilities that fuel my passionate engagement in the mission of Pacifica.

~ EVANS LANSING SMITH, Program Chair

ACADEMIC FORMAT

The Master of Arts degree is awarded after the first two years of study and successful completion of a comprehensive examination. Students seeking the doctorate degree engage in a third year of coursework that includes a sequence of research courses and the development of a concept paper for the dissertation. The fourth and fifth years of study focus on dissertation writing and research. Continuing supervision is provided for the completion of the dissertation. Mythological Studies classes take place once each month during fall, winter, and spring. There is also one five-day summer session each year.

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

At the cusp of a paradigm shift in which outmoded mechanistic, reductive modes of thinking are being replaced by a more complex, reanimated worldview, the study of myth, story, and fable has an exciting new relevance. The study of myth can help guide us with its storehouse of narratives and images, facilitating our personal and collective transition into a more vibrant reality.

Myth reveals the unconscious narratives of past and present, making the study of myth vitally important to our times. Issues of faith and violence, sexuality and gender, the sacred and the secular, all co-mingle in the history of world religions and literature to comprise the interdisciplinary tapestry that is mythological studies.

Pacifica's Degree Program in Mythological Studies invites students to understand the mythological, folkloric, and archetypal structures of the stories that play out in many different arenas all around us—culture and the arts, the environment, education, and religion. The Program explores new ways to detect and study the mythic and folkloric motifs revealed in current events, tell stories, and mentor others in the use of storytelling as a tool of cultural transformation and renewal. Drawing inspiration from the works of Joseph Campbell, Sigmund Freud, and C. G. Jung, and guided by internationally recognized scholars, authors, and educators, students craft research projects specific to their interest and concerns.

I did not know that I was living a myth, and even if I had known it, I would not have known what sort of myth was ordering my life without my knowledge. So, in the most natural way, I took it upon myself to get to know “my” myth, and I regarded this as the task of tasks.

~C.G. JUNG

INQUIRY IN THE CURRICULUM IS SUSTAINED THROUGH COURSEWORK THAT INVESTIGATES:

- Similarities and differences that may be discerned within and between Hindu and Buddhist traditions in the East, and Abrahamic traditions of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam in the West.
- The relationship between ritual, oral traditions, and indigenous cultures.
- Literature courses focusing on the Arthurian romances, alchemy, epics, mythologies of the underworld, and folklore that begin with the classics of the canon and progress towards contemporary and postmodern re-visions in literature, film, music, and art history.
- Personal development courses on dreams, visions, and myths; personal mythology and creative writing; evolving God-images in the context of postmodernity; and memoir and autobiography.
- Depth psychological courses devoted to perspectives of C.G. Jung, Joseph Campbell, and James Hillman.
- Research courses on theoretical approaches to the study of myth, myth and philosophy, methods, and contemporary issues in religious studies and dissertation writing.

Story was our ancestors' most sacred possession. They knew what we do not: that without a founding story, you haven't got a nation, a culture, or a civilization. And without a story of your own, you haven't got a life of your own.

What drew me here was the Joseph Campbell Library and the real focus on comparative mythology.

What kept me here was the quality of the teaching and the incredible student community. I've worked in biotechnology for 30 years. The people I work with tell me I became a better scientist after going through the myth program at Pacifica.

M.A. IN ENGAGED HUMANITIES AND THE CREATIVE LIFE

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

The Engaged Humanities program is a unique low-residency program that allows graduate students to find rich sources of inspiration in the humanities, including the study of mythology, philosophy, psychology, history, literature, and ecology as they affect the art and craft of living and working artfully.

Students learn strategies for tapping into the deep well of the collective unconscious as a source of creativity. In the program students experience the ways in which those working in creative capacities inspire and influence each other. Students learn to increase their generativity and cultivate their aesthetic sensibility and sensitivity by being in conversation about the creative life with faculty and peers, with great literature, classic films, and works of art spanning diverse genres, cultures, and periods of time. In the program students complete two substantial creative projects and reflect upon their creative process.

In today's rapidly changing world, we are constantly called to yield to a new creative movement—as Joseph Campbell writes—to recreate all fields and invent new forms, structures, designs, and products that address the needs of our era. Campbell says, “we are participating in one of the very greatest leaps of the human spirit,” fueled by the creative impulses manifested by new sciences, technology, the arts, and humanities, and democratized by the internet. Never before has it been so easy to share in the creative process and products of humanity. The wisdom traditions of the humanities and depth psychology influence the arts and digital media, informing and enriching the creative life. In fact, the world itself has its own creativity, manifested in the archetypes of the collective unconscious, whose symbols, images, metaphors, and movements are all the prima materia for this creative movement.

This M.A. program's approach is broad, highly interdisciplinary, and satisfying for those who seek to combine intellectual exploration with creativity. Honoring Pacifica's mission to tend soul in and of the world, the program merges art-making and soul-making, supporting students in tending to their souls by tending to their creative lives. Intellectual rigor is uniquely combined with creative expression, encouraging dialogue among students and faculty with a focus on expanding individual and collective potential to contribute to the humanities. The program is designed for those who seek to live and work more creatively, or foster creativity in themselves and others—including anyone in the visual, performing, narrative, studio, and media arts; the creative side of advertising, marketing, and product development; teachers of art, literature, and the humanities; or professionals in fields such as architecture, interior design, fashion, and the film, television, and music industries.

How can the psychology of the creative unconscious help you find the numinous, offer spiritual inspiration, and deepen you in art? The M.A. in Engaged Humanities and the Creative Life is a unique program designed to develop creativity through a potent combination of the soul of the imagination, humanities resources, and arts practice.

~ SUSAN ROWLAND, Program Chair

ACADEMIC FORMAT

This hybrid degree program takes advantage of online distance-learning technology that allows students to work and learn in their home environments. Additionally, once each quarter, students gather on Pacifica's Ladera Lane Campus for a four-day weekend (Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday) in a retreat-style residence. During these on-campus sessions, students have access to the Institute's extensive resources and are able to further community involvement and professional collaboration. They join classmates from around the world in forming professional relationships and networks of like-minded individuals. This convenient format brings Pacifica's graduate degree programs to global citizens and the life-long learners who otherwise might not be able to fulfill their educational calling.

The M.A. program in Engaged Humanities and the Creative Life provides an education in the humanities informed by mythology and depth psychology. The program's unique learning format combines the best aspects of a connected, heartfelt, interpersonal experience with the convenience of distance-learning technology.

Your life is much deeper and broader than you conceive it to be. What you are living is but a fractional inkling of what is really within you, what gives you life, breadth, and depth. But you can live in terms of that depth. And you can experience it.

M.A. IN ENGAGED HUMANITIES AND THE CREATIVE LIFE

WITH EMPHASIS IN DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY

WHY “ENGAGED” HUMANITIES?

How does this adjective reflect and inflect this degree program? “Engage” is actually a late Middle English term that means to pledge oneself to do something. This is no ivory tower program where we sequester ourselves away to look down upon the humanities from a distance. Instead, we promise an engagement with the humanities, and pledge ourselves to do something with our studies. This “something” can be summarized in Pacifica’s motto—anima mundi colenda gratia—for the sake of tending soul in and of the world. We engage with the humanities to tend to our souls, and the souls of those around us. We engage with the humanities to see how soul has been tended by those around the world for millennia, and we pledge to continue to tend the soul of the world.

And how do we do that? We do it through engaging with our creative life, both our personal creative life and the creative life of humanity, as expressed through literature, history, religion, mythology, art, healing practices, etc. We cultivate our inner life through the wisdom tradition of depth psychology, and make a space in this place for the expression of our psyches in whatever creative format calls to us. You don’t have to be an artist to join us—this is not an MFA program (though artists are certainly welcome). You do have to be committed to artful living, to exploring the art of living in full partnership with the creative, dynamic unconscious that lives within and around you.

In this sense, it could be called Engaged Humanities and the Co-Creative Life, because this program is all about providing students with both an academic and an experiential knowledge of, and engagement with, the creative, dynamic unconscious which seeks expression through them. But it is co-creative in another sense—and here’s the jewel in the crown. Can you imagine what it’s like to take a group of committed students and put them together in a cohort and then give them permission to unleash their creativity? They’re off and running, and to borrow from Dr. Seuss, oh the places they’ll go! Sparks fly, one person’s flame fans another, then another, and suddenly they’re all on fire, surprising themselves with their own burning light—the light that was there all along, just waiting for the match that a program like this provides.

And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet’s pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

~WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

The creative act is not hanging on, but yielding to a new creative movement.

~JOSEPH CAMPBELL

I have been a poet and a painter for more than 20 years, and I consider myself to be a lifelong seeker.

When I came to Pacifica, I felt that I truly had found a home. The program’s hybrid format allowed me to follow the scholarly path and still pursue the other aspects of my life that matter to me. I had a fabulous experience as a student at Pacifica. The active way in which I learned to engage the imagination has been of special value to me.

LISA POUNDER, M.A.
Engaged Humanities and the Creative Life Graduate

The psyche is not just a question mark arbitrarily confined within the skull, but rather a door that opens upon the human world from a world beyond, allowing unknown and mysterious powers to act upon man and carry him on the wings of the night to a more than personal destiny.

3 REVIEW BY ADMISSIONS COMMITTEE

After you have submitted the required application documents, your completed application file will be sent to the Admissions Committee for review and consideration for an interview. Upon recommendation by the committee, you will be invited to interview.

4 INTERVIEW

Interviews are a required step in the Pacifica admissions process. The interview addresses a number of important topics concerning the applicant's potential to engage in graduate studies. They include past educational experience, emotional maturity, personal readiness, and experience related to the applicant's chosen program of study and future goals.

Applicants to the M.A. in Counseling Psychology Program are invited to interview in person at the Ladera Lane Campus. Candidates for the Clinical Psychology Programs are invited to interview at the Lambert Road Campus. For all other programs, if you do not live locally, you may be able to interview via phone or video conference.

Notifications of the Admission Committee's decision will be sent after the interview.

5 ACCEPTANCE

Applicants who have been accepted submit a non-refundable deposit of $250 and enrollment agreement forms for confirmation. The deposit and forms must be received within 14 days of receipt of acceptance. Those who are unable to attend the current academic year must submit a new application and updated documents in order to be considered for acceptance at a later date.

Pacifica's Office of Admission has designated advisors for each degree program who are happy to assist throughout the application and admissions process.

The Office of Admission will notify you each step of the way as application file documents are received, and will keep you advised of upcoming deadlines.

Admissions advisors are always available to answer questions and provide information on academic calendars, program start dates, suggested reading lists, and scheduling a campus tour.

Email admissions@pacifica.edu or call 805.879.7305.

FINANCIAL AID

While financing an education can be challenging, the Financial Aid Office is committed to making this process as manageable as possible. The purpose of financial aid is to provide financial assistance to students enrolled on at least a half-time basis (minimum of three units/quarter) in an eligible program at Pacifica Graduate Institute. Pacifica's Board of Trustees, administrators, faculty, and staff do all they can to ensure a quality educational experience. Pacifica offers a number of scholarships each year to those applicants who show high financial need and academic merit. Scholarship applications are available by request and on the Financial Aid Office website beginning January 1st. To be considered, all new applicants must be accepted to a program of study, complete the annual Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form using Pacifica's school code (G31268), and submit the scholarship application and essay by the deadlines. International students, instead of the FAFSA, must complete the International Student Addendum with the scholarship application by the deadline. Refer to the scholarship application for details and instructions.

At the graduate level, the primary sources of funding are loan programs. Pacifica participates in the U.S. Department of Education's Federal Direct Loan program. The Direct Loan program provides students with access to federally Unsubsidized Stafford loans as well as Graduate PLUS loans by allowing students to borrow directly from the U.S. Department of Education rather than a private lender.

For more details regarding loan options, visit www.studentloans.gov.

Psychology with Specialization in Somatic Studies. The number and amount of individual awards is contingent upon the number of eligible applications received. This scholarship is renewable, provided recipients meet the required grade point average.

PEACE CORPS PAUL D. COVERDELL FELLOW PROGRAM: The Peace Corps, in partnership with Pacifica, is pleased to offer the Paul D. Coverdell Fellowship Program to returned Peace Corps volunteers.

POST 9/11 GI BILL—YELLOW RIBBON SCHOLARSHIP: Up to ten Yellow Ribbon Scholarships are offered each year for qualifying Veterans under the Post 9/11 GI Bill on a first-come, first-served basis.

SEGAL AMERICORPS MATCHING SCHOLARSHIP: Offered to qualified AmeriCorps Alumni enrolled in one of our Master or Doctoral programs. A total of five new scholarships will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Students are encouraged to apply for all applicable scholarships. However, scholarships cannot be combined with other Pacifica Graduate Institute Scholarships. Only one scholarship can be awarded per student.

PACIFICA ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Even though it has been years since I finished my master's degree at Pacifica, I still marvel at the complete transformation that came from this experience.

I have gained knowledge, I experienced deep healing, I reclaimed my creative life. I reconnected with my calling, and I discovered my Self. Moreover, I did this amongst my kin. Really, it doesn't get any better than that.

Pacifica Graduate Institute has graduated over 4,500 alumni. Director of Alumni Relations Dianne Travis-Teague facilitates a partnership between the Alumni Relations team and the independent 501(c)(3) Alumni Association in order to provide programs and services that strengthen connections between the community, graduates, and the Institute.

The mission of the Pacifica Graduate Institute Alumni Association (PGIAA) is "to develop and operate an educational and charitable organization that supports Pacifica alumni and the wider community in developing their intellectual, spiritual, altruistic, and professional capabilities." Through its website (PGIAA.org) and presence on social media, the Association promotes idea sharing, personal growth, professional development, mentoring, and public service. Scholarships and annual Alumni Awards recognize unique, diverse accomplishments.

The Association's yearly New Year's Eve celebration, "A Toast Heard Round the World," provides a live Twitter feed to alumni scattered around the world. Annual "Coming Home" reunion weekends, open to alumni and students alike, showcase alumni accomplishments through poster sessions, speakers, workshops, awards, and an "Alumni Authors Spotlight" and book-signing. Volunteer regional coordinators facilitate activities for local alumni across the country.

PGIAA helps to create positive change within society through service and education. Events include non-profit fund-raisers, community environmental projects, educational retreats, community outreach, and student mentoring programs.

THE RETREAT AT PACIFICA

Pacifica expands its mission of tending soul in the world and its reach of transformative education through online seminars, residential workshops, and interactive conferences. These offerings feature distinguished members of Pacifica's faculty, along with internationally recognized leaders in the arts, sciences, business, and the humanities. The ever-growing Pacifica community finds its collective voice worldwide in regional gatherings of alumni, residential events held on the Pacifica campuses in Santa Barbara, and through online networks of soul-centered, personalized teaching and learning.

When you follow your bliss, and by bliss I mean the deep sense of being in it and doing what the push is out of your own existence...doors will open where you would not have thought there were going to be doors.
